HUSTON'S DRUG STORE ROBBED.

Burglar Believed to Have Picked Lock to Gain Entrance.

RIFLED DOZENS OF DRAWERS

Huston's drug store on West Main street was broken into during the night and robbed of a quantity of change, the exact amount not being known by C. Roy Hetzel, manager for Frank Huston, the proprietor. The money was found in a drawer of bay leaves, behind the counter near the front of the store. The burglar was evidently familiar with the custom of the store to secret its daily sales about the store rather than keeping them in the safe. He missed the bulk of the money, however, which was found when the store was opened this morning.

When Earl Wynn, the clerk, came to the store this morning he was first struck by the sight of bay leaves scattered about the floor. A glance behind the cases showed that practically every drawer along the west wall had been opened and rifled. The glass doors on the shelves above the drawers were all open.

Wynn immediately called Manager Hetzel, who quickly arrived and began an investigation. He found that a cigar box containing a quantity of silver and other change had been discovered beneath the bay leaves. The bulk of the money, however, was not obtained.

When Wynn went to the store about 7 o'clock this morning he found the doors locked, as usual. Investigation later disclosed several new scratches about the keyhole. Chief of Police George Hetzel conducted an investigation. He reached the conclusion that the lock had been picked. After gaining entrance the burglar evidently locked the door after him, to throw the night watchman off the scent. He then turned the gas jet in the front of the store down low and extinguished the one that is always left burning in the back.

After looting the drawers in the front of the store and rummaging about the perfume case, the burglar went to the rear, where the safe is located. This safe was unlocked but the doors were closed. In tampering with the safe the burglar locked the doors. He evidently attempted to force the handles, as two monkey wrenches were found close at hand. The marauder left the store by the rear door.

This morning two heel prints were disclosed. One was small, apparently belonging to a woman.

C. Roy Hetzel stated this morning that he was careful to see that the rear door was bolted and barred before leaving the store last night. He does not believe it possible that the burglar could have secreted himself about the store before it was closed for the night. He closed shortly after 9.30 and returned about 10.30, but did not go in. At that time the lights were burning properly. He says it might have been possible that someone watched him as he secreted the box of change in the drawer of bay leaves. It is the third drawer from the front and a portion of it is visible from the street. The colored porter who is employed by the firm stated that he saw a suspicious looking man loitering about the store a couple of times yesterday.

"Keep Moving" Police Orders

Yesterday the police were given orders to allow no more loitering against buildings and store windows on Main and Pittsburg streets. The order went into effect last evening. Hereafter the street loafers will be required to seek the curb and not the side of the pavement on which buildings are located.

Chief of Police George Hetzel said the plan worked well last evening and that parties told to move off to the curb line took the hint with good grace. The Chief says the police have orders to arrest anyone who refuses to move when requested.

COMMERCE CHAMBER WANTS PRESIDENT TAFT TO SPEAK.

Directors Will Meet Tonight When Matter of Having the Presidential Special Held Here Will Be Discussed.

The Chamber of Commerce will this evening take up the matter of President Taft's approaching trip through Connellsville and efforts made to have him deliver a brief speech here. The Directors will give the matter careful consideration.

Secretary J. Frol Kurtz announced this morning that the Chamber of Commerce will make every effort to have the President's special timed in such a manner that it will arrive here at a seasonable hour, when the President can speak. The Presidential party stops off in Pittsburg on October 31 to attend the mine rescue demonstration and it is possible that it will not leave for Morgantown before the morning of November 1.

The special may follow No. 6 out of Pittsburg, although this is merely a matter of conjecture. If arrangements can be made to have the President speak here he will be assured of a cordial welcome. The fact that the train passes through Connellsville and must make a stop for water leads the members of the Chamber of Commerce to believe that it will not be difficult to have the President speak. Whether he could be persuaded to remain here for an hour or so and take a run over the town is hardly likely although the town will be turned over to him as long as he wants it.

Burgess Evans stated this morning that he had taken no steps, in his official capacity as chief magistrate of the city, to have the Taft special stop here. He will take the matter up with the Chamber of Commerce Directors, of which he is a member, this evening.

Politics Warming Up in New Boro

The campaign in South Connellsville is beginning to simmer and is expected to reach a boiling point before many days. With three tickets in the field there promises to be some lively campaigning for the first borough ticket to be elected. The Republicans are confident of carrying their candidates through but it is said the Socialists are counting on springing a surprise or two before the count is completed.

The Socialists look to South Connellsville to poll the largest vote for that party in any district in the county. The result of the primary election, however, indicates that the Republican nominees will have easy sailing.

Annual Baby Show at Dunn's Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon Baby Day will be celebrated at E. Dunn's store and if the weather is favorable a large turnout of babies and their mothers are expected. The affair is celebrated annually and this year over 500 invitations were issued.

Babies will not only be present from Connellsville, but from Scottdale, Dawson, Vanderbilt, Dunbar, Uniontown and other nearby towns.

The babies will be royally entertained in the large carpet room on the second floor of the store and as heretofore the entire room will be given over to the babies.

Flynn Disorderly; Leaves Watch

Thomas Flynn of Marianna faced Burgess Evans this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. He said he only asked the girl in the West Penn restaurant for catsup when she called the police last evening. Burgess Evans had other information, concerning remarks Flynn is alleged to have directed at Officer P. M. Rutli, and a $5 fine was assessed. Flynn left his watch as a forfeit.

William Warren, who lives near Portage, was beating his way home when arrested here for train riding. He was discharged.

FRANK BAKER TELLS WHAT MATTY TOSSED

It Was an Inshoot, He Saw it "Break" and "Busted" It, He Says.

NO GAME IS PLAYED TODAY

Umpires Look at Rain-Soaked Ground and Mournfully Announce the Contest Off—Crowds Were Waiting in Drizzle for Gates to Open.

United Press Telegram.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—"Matty threw me an inshoot, which would have been an outshoot to a right handed batter. I saw her start to break and I busted her. That's all."

In terse language Frank Baker, crack third baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics and hero of the present World's Series, told the United Press today what kind of a ball Christy Mathewson hurled at him in the fatal ninth inning of Tuesday's game. An instant later that ball was sailing into the right field bleachers, Baker circled the bases with the lone run that tied the score and the Giants were whipped.

"Marquard threw a fast one between my shoulder and waist," Baker said when asked what kind of a shoot enabled him to lift the cork centered sphere over the Shibe park wall and score himself and Eddie Collins in the game Monday which enabled the Athletics to win.

This afternoon's contest was called off shortly after 10 o'clock because of wet grounds. A drizzle began at 9 o'clock and at 10 the ticket windows came down with a bang. The big crowd which had gathered despite the rain was dismissed.

The umpires inspected the field and reported to the National Commission that it would be impossible to play today.

The prospects for tomorrow's game are that the field will be soggy and slow. It is believed the weather will be clear and that the game can be played.

Oldring, the Athletic outfielder, received word today that his sister is dead at Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Despite his grief he decided to remain and play out the series.

"HOME RUN" BAKER IS CHAMPIONSHIP HERO.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Frank Baker, who will be known for some time as "Home Run" Baker, is easily the hero of the world's championship series to date. He won the second game in Philadelphia. He knocked the ball over the fence when a man was on second and thus won the game. In the third contest the score was one to nothing in favor of the Giants at the beginning of the ninth inning. One man was out when Baker went to bat and sent the ball into the center field grand stand. He trotted around the bases with the run that tied the score while the crowd went wild. The game went into extra innings, and the Athletics finally won.

CRAZED WITH DRINK, BOBOY ATTEMPTS TO HANG HIS WIFE.

Had Rope Around Neck and Would Have Choked Her to Death Had She Not Escaped, is Story Told Squire.

That John Boboy, a foreigner of Trotter, yesterday attempted to hang his wife, while crazed with drink, is the story Mrs. Boboy told Squire P. M. Buttermore. County Detective Frank McLaughlin was notified and immediately made information against Boboy charging him with assault and battery. Constable R. A. Smith of the West Side arrested Boboy and placed him in the lockup here pending a hearing this afternoon.

Mrs. Boboy told a pitiful tale. Yesterday her husband had been drinking heavily. He came home and proceeded to abuse his wife. Her efforts to placate his wrath failed and in maudlin fury seized a rope, deftly made a loop, despite his intoxicated condition, and threw it around his wife's neck. Before he could draw it tight enough to choke her, Mrs. Boboy slipped the noose and ran from the house.

At the hearing this afternoon she will testify against her husband. Boboy is somewhat sobered as a result of his incarceration in the lockup.

Coffee Prices Soar Sky High

United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Today's coffee market opened with No. 7 Rio quoted at 16 cents per pound. This is the highest price quoted for this brand since 1895, during the days of the Brazilian "coffee famine." It is said that 30,000,000 pounds of coffee, more than last year's crop, have been stored in warehouses. Although there are prospects of a short crop it is declared that the high price is due to the "coffee trust," composed of the Brazilian government and American and European financiers, who are endeavoring to corner the supply until 1919.

Arbuckles have announced that on Monday the wholesale price of coffee would be advanced to 23½ cents. Other dealers will follow suit. Fifteen months ago the quotation was 17 and 18 cents.

Thirty of the larger roasters and jobbers met today and informally decided to fight the trust.

THE MOOSE BANQUET WAS A HAPPY AFFAIR

Five Hundred Members and Friends Present Last Evening.

JOHN GARLAND CHIEF SPEAKER

Youngstown, O., Man Past Supreme Dictator, Delivered Eloquent and Clever Address—Banquet Most Successful and Enjoyable Lodge Has Given.

Five hundred members of the Connellsville Lodge of Moose, visiting members from many points in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia and invited guests were present last evening at the sixth annual banquet of the Connellsville lodge at their club rooms on North Pittsburg street. It was a happy affair, splendidly managed, successful and entertaining until the last guest and member departed shortly after midnight. Of the more than 400 membership in the Connellsville lodge there were 300 present. The balance who sat around the banquet tables were visiting members, many from Uniontown, Scottdale, Mt. Pleasant, Greensburg, Vanderbilt, Perryopolis and other places nearby and distant. Not a man present left without congratulating himself for being present and the members of the Lodge who arranged and prepared the banquet and program. There were clever and eloquent speeches from visiting members, little talks by members of the home lodge that won merited applause and a spirit of camaraderie that cheers and cements the fellowship of men.

The address of the evening was made by John Garland of Youngstown, O., Supreme Past Worthy Dictator of the Order of Moose. Mr. Garland is eloquent and witty. His address last night commanded the closest attention and was fraught with sound reasoning, well timed flights into the realms of oratory, and humor. Mr. Garland's talk was on the Order of the Moose, its purpose as a fraternal organization. He pled for higher things in the manner of our living and pointed out how well the tenets of Mooseodom conform to the ideas he expressed when correctly interpreted. Mr. Garland was greeted with the warmest applause at the conclusion of his talk. Many members arose and hastened to congratulate him.

Jack Mitchell, than whom there is no more eloquent extemporaneous speaker in the city, caught the banqueters with one of his characteristic witty speeches. Jess Cyphers, on "Beneficial Organizations of the Country," had the attention of those present every second of his talk which was full of interesting statistics and logical deductions.

President of Town Council J. B. Millard and Councilman O. P. Burns were called upon for speeches and both of them gracefully arose to the occasion. T. O. Evans, one of the hardest workers for the Moose in Connellsville and deservedly popular among the membership, got a rousing hand when he was called upon. It was doubled and trebled when he sat down at the conclusion of a little speech that came right from the heart and straight from Tom's hefty shoulder.

One of the features of the evening was the piano playing of J. T. Riley, an artist and a good fellow. At intervals during the evening Mr. Riley played classical selections and operas that alternately brought tears and thrills of ecstasy. Kiferle's orchestra also played during the evening.

Worthy Dictator W. E. Rice acted as toastmaster in the absence of J. D. Madigan who could not be present. And let it be said that every inch of the six foot two stature of the toastmaster last night fitted into the occasion. Visitors were made welcome and at home. Speakers were aptly and gracefully introduced. Bill filled the bill. It was a big night for the Moose.

The following were among those present from out of town: J. M. Garland, Frank McGurgan, O. P. Flack, Scottdale; W. S. Burke, Butler; G. O. Boyd, J. M. Coll, G. M. Martin, T. T. Murphy, Pittsburg; J. W. Trump, Vanderbilt; M. J. Synn, John Cunningham, Scottdale; P. T. Lynch, Grindstone; R. R. Blackford, Pittsburg; L. W. Slayton, Scottdale; J. D. Fritz, Dr. J. M. Crosby, Mt. Pleasant; J. C. Whittaker, Greensburg; H. W. Ringer, Canton, O.; M. J. Keene Scottdale; A. R. Enos, Vanderbilt; Edward Schlinger, Broad Ford.

Body Will Be Taken Out of Brine And Returned Here for Burial.

The remains of the late John Lihay, who was drowned early last week in a small pool of water at St. James Park, near Dawson, will be interred in Connellsville. Lihay was employed on the erection of Mrs. Sara B. Cochran's new residence at St. James Park. While walking about the peach farm in the evening he was seized with an epileptic fit and fell into a pot of water and was drowned. The body was removed to Undertaker Parkhill's morgue at Vanderbilt and was kept there until last Saturday when the body was shipped to the Anatomical Board at Philadelphia, because the widow of the deceased, who lives at Vanderbilt, was unable to pay for the burial of her husband.

A number of his friends took the matter up and succeeded in raising enough money to have the body returned to Connellsville for interment. This morning Fowler Newmyer, clerk at the County Home, came to Connellsville from Uniontown and forwarded a check to Philadelphia to bear the expense of taking the body out of the brine vat and ship it back to Connellsville.

Nomination Papers for Squire Filed; Commissioners Say No Election.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 19.—Two nomination petitions for Justice of the Peace in Connellsville were filed with the County Commissioners at Uniontown today. They were filed by W. P. Clark and J. D. Stillwagon. Although the petitions were accepted by the Commissioners, they notified both men that no space for Justice of the Peace will be left on the ballot at the November election.

The petitions were taken by the Commissioners in order that either Clark or Stillwagon could, if he so desired take the case into court in an effort to compel the Commissioners to print his name on the ballot.

It is stated that the Commissioners and County Solicitor R. F. Hopwood base their decision not to reserve space on the November election for Justice of the Peace in Connellsville on an opinion by Attorney General Bell.

Suffragists Storming Kentucky

Special to The Courier.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19.—Delegates to the forty-third annual convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association took Louisville by storm today. The women have come from every section of the country, prepared to give to "the cause" the most notable impetus since the inception of the equal franchise movement. The hostelries of the city are taxed to provide accommodations for the visitors and many of them are being entertained in private homes.

The program for the five days' session is pronounced the best ever prepared for a convention of the association. There will be reports from each of the delegations representing their respective States. These reports will embody a narration of the progress made during the past year, the plans of campaign found most effective in the different localities and an exchange of ideas through debate.

It is in the number and prominence of the speakers, however, that the present convention promises to eclipse all of its predecessors. Heading the list is the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw of Philadelphia, the president of the national organization and the most prominent advocate of equal rights since the days of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony. Others who will be heard at the several sessions include Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Miss Mary Johnson, the Virginia novelist; Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, wife of the noted Irish journalist and member of Parliament; Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, the Kentucky suffrage leader; Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr College; Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffrage leader, and Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Michigan.

Though a convention of women and in the cause of women, the fair sex do not intend to monopolize the program. Dr. Harvey M. Wiley, the pure food expert, will be among the speaker, also Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo and Omar Garwood of the Colorado Equal Rights Aid Association. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin has advised the association that he will be here to deliver an address if his other engagements permit.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

BIG WALNUT CROP.

One thousand bushels of walnuts is a conservative estimate of the crop on the farm of W. J. Clark on Dunkard creek, about one mile over Mason and Dixon's line in West Virginia. Mr. Clark is the father of J. O. Clark of Uniontown.

This is probably by far the largest crop of walnuts of any farmer in any of the surrounding counties and if Mr. Clark were able to sell them his pocketbook would be enriched to a very great extent, but his nearest railroad station is Star City on the Monongahela river, 10 miles away, and he does not expect to take any of the product to market.

These walnuts are just beginning to fall and a few heavy frosts will cause them all to come down. The branches have been swaying under the weight of the nuts and the ground will be literally covered. Mr. Clark and family will probably gather only a comparatively small quantity of the nuts, then the hogs will be turned in to eat what they want and the rest will go to waste.

All of the walnut trees on this farm grew wild, but in clearing his farm Mr. Clark always left the walnut and chestnut trees, trimmed and took good care of them. There is only about 25 acres of virgin timber on the farm, but walnut trees are still growing in all the cleared spaces. It is truly a revelation to see the immense quantity of walnuts and they are uniformly large and choice too.

There are also wonderful crops of chestnuts, hickory nuts and wild grapes in that section, but on account of the inaccessibility of the location many of them will not be gathered.

Chinese Revolt Gaining Fast

United Press Telegram

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—It is said that in the fighting that has taken place near Wu-Chang has resulted in the loss of 300 rebels and many more loyalists. Refugees from Hankow, who came on six steamships today, declare that frightful scenes are being enacted along the river, the Chinese hunting down their Manchu enemies like wild animals. It is believed the revolution has reached such proportions that it can never be quelled.

Shanghai is a hotbed of revolt. There is mutiny among the 21,000 troops being sent to relieve the loyalists at Hankow. For the first time in history Chinese women have volunteered as members of the Red Cross.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"There never was a worse case."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE CLARION CALL OF CHAIRMAN CRAY.

In another column will be found the clarion call of Chairman James Reform Cray, who by his own confession has accepted the position of leader of a forlorn political hope, but who evidently hopes that he may land some of his candidates if he can persuade the people of Fayette county that there is no public virtue except that which is labeled Democratic.

The initial announcement of the worthy chairman is perhaps one of the most interesting contributions to Fayette county's political literature that has ever been published. It is also amusing, and it has other attractive features not wholly divorced from commercialism. We hope that Chairman Cray will keep it up. He has our cordial assurance that it is to us both pleasant and profitable.

Chairman Cray has the strategy of Napoleon and the diplomacy of Desraeli. He points out that there are more offices in the county under the new census, "that the duties and responsibilities have been enlarged; and, perhaps quite incidentally, he mentions that "the emoluments thereof" are increased.

Chairman Cray tells us frankly that he has no quarrel with this condition, and we know of no reason why he should. It is ideally Democratic. But he seems to think that these many offices with their large powers and big salaries should be handed out to the Democrats by "men of large interests" and others, in order to wipe out "bribery, coercion and debauchery" at the polls, and so earnest is Chairman Cray in this view that he repents these terms no less than three separate and distinct times in his Catonic denunciation of these political evils.

This portion of his address is Napoleonic, but it sounds like the noise of Waterloo. The Republican voters of Fayette county have a very lively appreciation of Democratic "bribery, coercion and debauchery" at the polls. The Democrats have been infinitely worse in this respect than the Republicans. A large portion of them have always been willing to vote any primary ticket that paid the best at all primary elections, and sometimes for a consideration could be induced to temporarily change their politics.

The diplomacy of Chairman Cray is shown in his non-partisan plea to certain interests to "rise in their might" and elect the Democratic county ticket to the end that the county offices will be administered with "honesty, ability, competency and efficiency."

The assumption that the Democratic ticket contains all the "honesty ability, competency and efficiency" to be found on the ballot is a most violent one, nor is there anything in the past history of long-continued Democratic rule in Fayette county to indicate that any possible administrative improvement points to that party. Chairman Cray's sounding cymbals of late repentant political reform to the contrary notwithstanding.

Fayette county's Republican administrations have been honest and efficient. The public interests have been managed in a businesslike manner. The interests of the taxpayers have been better conserved than they were under Democratic rule.

Chairman Cray should speak softly concerning "bribery, corruption and debauchery." These have long been Democratic specialties in Fayette county. If the worthy chairman is as sincere as he seems to be diplomatic, he had better pull off his coat and get busy on the job of cleaning his own household before making remarks about the dust on his neighbor's doorstep.

POTTSVILLE IS RESIGNED AND PHILOSOPHICAL.

The Pottsville Republican, commenting on the decision of the Supreme Court concerning third class city government for Connellsville and Pottsville, says that it is disappointing and discouraging to the progressive citizens who have been fighting for years for city government to now find themselves denied and delayed because of an Act of Assembly which was never intended to apply to them. Nevertheless, The Republican extracts the following consolation from the situation:

Now since we are to have two years more of borough rule it will be found that those who most severely criticised borough government and methods will be the ones who will most enthusiastically endeavor to promote the town and show that a borough can be progressive and up to date even if it is handicapped by the provisions for its conduct as found in the act regulating boroughs.

In the meantime Pottsville people have plenty of time to think over plans for the new city. There will be plenty of opportunity to cast about and secure men who are suited for office to get the new city in motion. Good selections were made in the city nominations at the recent primaries but in some of the ward offices there was room for considerable improvement. In the two years which we have to wait let all hands get together, whether original city charter workers or not, and endeavor to give to Pottsville a regulation of its business affairs which will place it at once in the foremost rank of third class cities of Pennsylvania. Pottsville has the opportunity before it to set the pace and we trust that some organization may make of municipal government a thorough study with the idea of having the matter publicly discussed and having all the newest and most approved forms put in working order at the start so that the other cities of Pennsylvania may point with pride to this city as the model of the State and that its government may become just as much quoted as is the Des Moines plan. In this way we may reap the benefit from the ill wind which has delayed this great step of progress towards which all progressive citizens have been looking for many years.

These suggestions and reasons will apply equally well and perhaps better in Connellsville. While some very excellent citizens announced themselves as candidates for various city offices, other offices were in danger of going into indifferent hands or going begging. There will now be ample time to develop ambitions and make the best possible selections from them.

Like Pottsville, Connellsville may as well be resigned and philosophical.

A Leisenring boarding boss jumped his meal bill. It is usually the boarder who jumps his board bill.

The American Tin Plate Company is in danger of being attacked by the Trust Busters. It has imported several car loads of Western potatoes for its workmen and has sold them at cut rates, all in restraint of local trade.

The South Connellsville campaign has its gum shoes on.

To the President: Stop and see us. Bring the Taft smile with you.

Hero of the Red Shirt.

By Isaac of Yukon.

Guiseppe Garibaldi, the great patriot of the old and famous House of Savoy, when a boy discovered that he had a few brains scattered here and there in his cranium and by constantly bumping his head against obstacles he succeeded in getting the gray matter to work in harmony.

Of the 23 different trades and occupations with their allied stinks and steams, not one of them appealed to young Garibaldi so much as that of marching in a parade. The young fellow didn't care a rap whether it was at the head carrying a torch for the lead cornet belcher or at the tail-end toddling along carrying an umbrella of the Abe Lincoln pattern.

In his youthful days, the hero of the red shirt dreamed of the time when he could be secretary of a parade or own one himself. Wherever he could get a dozen boys together he formed a parade. They marched up hill to attack an imaginary tyrant, knocked the kidneys loose in his abdominal cavity and then marched down again.

Tony went in to win. He joined the Sweet Order of Onions and was elected secretary. The dignity of this office entitled him to a badge and a sword to head any parade which might become epidemic. He then joined the society of Minced Bologna. After riding the goat eighteen nights hand-running, he passed into the chair of Supreme Tobacconist of the smoke room. This order was good for eight parades a year.

At the age of 22, the dashing leader was elected president of the Eighth ward hose company of Sardinia with power to act as auxiliary cruiser to all the firemen's conventions in the country south of the P. O. Because of using the funds for parades, he was exiled from Italy in 1834. He then went as a floating delegate of the Down and Out Society of Ilikers to Constantinople and then sold peanuts to raise money to take him to South America. In 1834, he was banished a second time and came to New York where he became a candle-maker

In 1849, he was at the head of a procession, this time riding in a big carriage, in Italy fighting for Victor Emanuel and Count Cavour. After this he joined all the secret societies, hose companies, became fish warden, school director, councilman, lawn fete captain, banque virtuoso, life insurance agent and Sunday School superintendent. The only place he did not march was with Sherman through Georgia.

Garibaldi believed as Napoleon believed, that the Lord was with the army whose cannon cracked the loudest. And so he kept parading and touching off loud mouthed cannon until, in 1870, he was able to turn Rome over to Vic Eman as the Capito; of Italy.

After this, twice did the irrepressible knight errant raise an army of volunteers and seize the city for freedom's sake and twice had the king to put the "steamer" on him for parading.

The man of the red shirt always got his picture on the front page. In old age, he paraded alone five or six miles before breakfast. At last he paraded as good as he could on crutches it was a great task but as he was a blue-ribbon degree parader he was equal for a tramp at any time. He died on the march.

An Ordinance.

Granting to the WEST PENN INTERURBAN RAILWAY COMPANY, a corporation existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, its successors and assigns, the right to construct its railway across and upon certain streets in the Borough of Connellsville, Fayette County, Pennsylvania.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Connellsville, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same.

Section 1. That the West Penn Interurban Railway Company, its successors and assigns, shall have the right and lawful authority to enter upon and construct a single track electric railway upon and along Seventh street, in the West Side of said borough from the Southern building line of Green avenue northwardly to Main street, formerly Ashman Avenue, with the necessary curves on Main and Seventh street to connect to the present tracks of said Railway, and the right for the necessary curves on Leisenring Avenue and Seventh street to turn off into Leisenring Avenue with curves to the East and West; also the right to turn off with a curve on to Green Avenue and the necessary curves, switches and turnouts into the car barns of the railway company; also upon and along Leisenring Avenue from the right of way line of the Southwest Pennsylvania Railroad westwardly to the borough line, with the necessary curves and branchoffs at the intersection of Eighth Street and Leisenring Avenue to connect to the tracks of said Railway Company to the North, South, East and West, with the necessary cross-over.

Section 2. Said West Penn Interurban Railway Company, its successors and assigns, shall have the right and lawful authority to construct, operate and maintain an electric railway along and across said route with all the poles, wires, brackets and other appliances necessary for the operation of a modern electric railway, with the authority to change the curb lines at intersecting streets where necessary on account of the installing of curves.

Section 3. Said West Penn Interurban Railway Company, its successors and assigns, shall have the right at any time to enter upon said streets and make repairs to its tracks or other property, said streets, however, when said work is completed, to be left in as good condition as when the work is commenced. The said company shall at all times have the right of way over its own tracks, and said track shall be laid to the grade established by the proper borough authorities, provided, however, that on Leisenring Avenue, where said railway crosses under the overhead bridge of the Connellsville & State Line Railway Company, the grade shall at no time be changed to make the clearance from the top of the rail to the under side of the bridge at any place less than sixteen (16') feet.

Section 4. Said West Penn Interurban Railway Company, its successors and assigns, for and in consideration of the granting of this ordinance, shall, at its own proper cost and expense, curb with concrete curb the East side of Seventh street and pave with brick two-thirds of Seventh Street, at the time that the Railway Company lays its track, and over that portion only upon which the track is actually laid, and shall maintain the paving between the rails and eighteen (18") inches on the outside thereof.

Section 5. Said track shall be laid to a gauge of five feet and two and one-half inches (5', 2½"), and the rail along said line shall be of the regulation girder type, said track to be laid in the center of said streets, except along Seventh Street, where the same may be shifted to the West Side to enable the switches to be installed for entrance into the car barns.

Section 6. Said West Penn Interurban Railway Company shall pay the cost of printing and publishing this ordinance.

Section 7. Said West Penn Interurban Railway Company shall accept this ordinance and send notice of acceptance of same to the proper borough officials within ten days of the final passage and approval of the same, otherwise this ordinance shall be null and void.

Section 8. Any ordinance or ordinances, or parts of ordinances, inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Campaign Statement Of Chairman Cray.

Political Advertisement.

To the Voters, Taxpayers and Citizens of Fayette County:

In the present political campaign there are no great national issues or State policies of government involved. Yet, notwithstanding the absence of these elements, the approaching election is perhaps the most important to the taxpayers, citizens and residents of Fayette county of any ever held in its history.

Owing to the increased population, as shown by the last census, material and important changes in the government and administration of the affairs of the county have been made by operation of law. New offices have been created, old ones abolished and others subdivided, thereby correspondingly increasing the number of officeholders. In some of the offices the duties and responsibilities have been enlarged and the salaries and emoluments thereof increased. The powers and responsibilities of the newly created office of County Controller in the government, management and administration of the affairs of the county are almost unlimited.

It is not my purpose nor is it practicable to herein set forth or discuss the creation, abolition, changes, enlargement or curtailment of the offices of the county or the duties, powers and responsibilities incident thereto. Suffice it to say, that I believe it will be generally conceded there never was a time in the history of the county when honesty, ability, competency and efficiency in county offices count for so much or are more urgently demanded than at present. Therefore, I believe that the present campaign should not be and will not be fought out or determined along political party lines. I believe that the standard by which the candidates for office at the coming election will be measured is that of honesty, ability, competency, efficiency and qualification; and it is upon these, together with the policies of clean elections, the elimination of bribery, coercion and debauchery of the ballot, with a faithful and true regard for the sacredness thereof, and a full and vigorous prosecution, in good faith, of all violations of election laws or attempts to subvert the will of the people without fear or favor and irrespective of person or party, that the Democratic candidates ask for the support of the voters at the approaching election.

In short, the entire Democratic county ticket for the coming election is pledged to clean politics, purity of the ballot, enforcement of election laws, and prosecution of violators thereof; honesty and efficiency in office, economy in the administration and management of the affairs of the county, with a due regard for the interests of all the taxpayers and people without discrimination.

Believing in these policies and having full faith and confidence in the personnel of the Democratic county ticket and the intentions and ability of the candidates to enforce and carry out the same, I have accepted the Chairmanship of the Democratic County Committee and hereby appeal, not merely to the voters of the Democratic party, but to the honest voters of every political faith, to men of large interests, manufacturers, mechanics, laborers, farmers and merchants, and to every voter who is interested in the welfare of the county and the community at large to rise in their might and crush out the debauchery and corruption in elections whereby the will of the people has been disregarded, ignored and subverted and which have brought the once fair name of Fayette county into disrepute among the counties of the State.

I therefore respectfully request the aid and support of all good citizens, regardless of politics or prior party affiliations, in our efforts to purify the politics of the county, and wipe out bribery, corruption and debauchery from our elections; place in offices of public trust men who can and will faithfully serve the interests of the people, and thereby restore to Fayette county the standing and reputation to which she is entitled and which she formerly enjoyed among her sister counties of the State.

Sincerely,
JAMES R. CRAY,
Chairman Democratic County Committee of Fayette County.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 19.—Miss Mina G. Wiley entertained the bridal party for the marriage of Araminta Claire Boyd and Charles Sherrick Wiley, which is to be solemnized this evening. The hostess is a sister of the bridegroom to be and the entertainment was in the form of a dinner given last evening at their parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wiley, of South Broadway. Covers were laid for 29, and the place cards were pale blue slippers, touched with pink, carrying out the color scheme that marked the entertainments being given for the last several days in honor of the bride to be. The wedding is to take place at 8 o'clock this evening, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Boyd, of North Chestnut street, and will be solemnized by Rev. C. L. E. Cartwright, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at this place, and now pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Pittsburg.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Lulu Campbell, Miss Edna Breegle, Miss Cecelia Reed and Miss Ella Thompson, Mrs. J. W. Sholar will be matron of honor, Miriam Breegle will be flower girl, W. S. Wiley, the best man, and the ushers will be Berkey H. Boyd, Charles Zimmers, H. N. Newcomer and J. Westley Wiley. T. Sutton Boyd, a brother, will give the bride. A number of out of town guests who have come on for the wedding were among the guests last evening.

Lee-Cupp Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Anna E. Cupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cupp, and W. Jackson Lee of Morgantown, W. Va., was a quiet home ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Chestnut street, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. B. Mansell, D. D., for the last two years the bride's pastor at the First Methodist church, and who goes to Bellevernon. The ring service was used, and was witnessed by only the immediate members of the family. The wedding was a very quiet one on account of the illness of the bride's mother, who was able, however, to be in the room at the ceremony. There were no attendants, but a sister of the bride, Miss Frances Cupp, played the wedding march. The bride is a graduate of the High school and one of the charming girls of the younger set. The bridegroom was formerly a resident of town, and sang in the choir of the Methodist church.

Wedding Anniversary.

Today is the eighteenth anniversary of the wedding of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Mansell, and it will be celebrated by a six o'clock dinner, which Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Myers of Mulberry street, will give in honor of the couple.

Ryan-Ames.

The marriage of Stella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Ames, and Joseph Francis Ryan of Everson, was an event of Tuesday morning at St. John the Baptist's Roman Catholic Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. A. Lambing. Miss Mary Ames, a sister of the bride, was her maid and Robert Ryan, a brother of the bridegroom was best man. A wedding breakfast was given for the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the marriage, and later dinner was given for the party and immediate families, 16 covers being laid. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Ellen Ryan of Everson, and a well known young business man, being associated with Joseph Ames in the Model Dairy Company. After a short trip the couple will be home tomorrow evening when a reception will be given them at Temperance hall at 8 o'clock.

UNIQUE WINDOW DISPLAY.

Be Sure And See It.

Barkley's Pharmacy, the leading druggists of this city, have a unique display in their window this week.

The display is featuring Orrine, the standard liquor habit remedy, which this store has sold for a number of years with much success.

One scene shows the workman being discharged by his employer with the statement "Drinking men not wanted." Employers nowadays do not keep men on their pay rolls whose brains are not steady and whose heads are not clear. Drinking men are not reliable.

Another scene shows the druggist telling the customer that drunkenness is a disease and that Orrine will cure it. Orrine has the hearty endorsement of druggists everywhere, as they know it is doing much good in every vicinity.

The next two scenes show the man who has previously been discharged for drunkenness now reclaimed by the use of Orrine given to him secretly by his wife, who standing by his side says "I'm the happiest woman in the world, Orrine cured my husband." In the scene the man is shown at his work drawing full pay and in the picture of health.

This display is a remarkable exhibit and Barkley's Pharmacy states that much interest is being taken in it and that they will be glad to talk to anyone who is interested in restoring to lives of sobriety those who drink to excess. Orrine is a home treatment, it is sold with a guarantee. Barkley's Pharmacy has sold a large quantity and know of excellent results from its use in this city.

Orrine costs only $1.00 a box and a complete cure costs less than the average drinking man will spend for liquor for himself and friends in a day. It can be given secretly if desired.

Be sure and see the display and get a free booklet.

OWENSDALE.

Special to The Courier.

OWENSDALE, Oct. 19.—The churches throughout the Morgan Valley have begun to plan for the winter's revival of protracted services. The Sunday school workers are also associated with the church in this matter. Although nothing definite has been made public the church people, as a whole, are working fervently to this end. The church people have decided to take a more active interest in the church matters at the various churches and thereby lessen the burden of the pastor.

The Union Sunday schools at Morgan and Bellevue will be a predominating factor in the church work during the winter's campaign as they have practically the enrollment almost all the people of their wide radius of work. The Hickory Square Methodist Protestant church at Broadford, the Bellevue and Morgan Union Sunday schools, the Owensdale United Brethren church, the Tyrone Presbyterian church and the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal church constitute the valley's places of worship.

Mrs. Joseph Goldsboro and sister, Miss Verna Ridenour, of Fairchance, who have been visiting relatives here for the past several days, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Alice Younkin was shopping at Scottdale yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas McGill is visiting at the home of her son, Clayton Baker, of Hostetter.

Miss Olive Ruth of Morgan Station was shopping at Scottdale Tuesday.

"Rusty" Diehl, a veteran tatterdemalion, passed through Owensdale on Tuesday bound towards Greensburg. "Rusty" is well known throughout the coke region as he rarely ever misses his annual tour through the coke empire. He is an old man and claims to have hobnobbed with prominent men of the financial world although "Rusty" alone has vouched for this. Like his wayfare brethren he is strong exponent of that dogmatic principle which wins the "handouts." He claims to have been the "pard" for two years of the Al Hoboo who has gained so much noticed throughout the United States.

NEW POLITICAL NOVEL.

The Pittsburg Dispatch.

Henry Russell Miller, the Pittsburg lawyer-author, made a ten strike awhile ago, when his first book, "The Man Higher Up," was launched upon a community agitated by rumors of graft, bribery and kindred evils. There was such an unusual demand for the book that Mr. Miller immediately set out to write another political novel, to still further "hammer" what is known as machine politics. This effort, from the press of Bobbs-Merrill & Company, of Indianapolis, is published today, and is called "His Rise to Power."

In "His Rise to Power" the author has been daring in the extreme. It is a fiction story, of course, with it is not difficult for the reader to recognize the forces toward which Mr. Miller aims his shafts. The author is no novice in politics, machine or insurgent, for in each of his volumes he is convincing—he seems to "have the goods."

The time of the novel starts back about ten years, and the characters are so thinly disguised that the average reader will readily pick out each one as a replica of some magnate in local or State politics. And the methods disclosed are familiar to anyone who has ever mixed up in the game. The organization, as indicated by one of the characters, is an improvement on the old wildcat politics and was formed for the two-fold purpose of protecting "the interests" from petty blackmailers, and to "deliver the goods" to said interests after they had paid all expenses, etc.

The story tells of a young insurgent who fought the "organization" and showed his mettle, but capitulated in time. The machine "got him" and the utterance of a United States Senator that "you may change leaders, but you cannot destroy the organization," came true. Much political history is introduced in the novel, including wrecked banks, suicides and similar incidents. The publishers frankly avow that Senator Marchell of the book is a composite of two United States Senators now dead, and a living politician in Pittsburg. The hero of the story, John Dunmeade, is said to be D. Clarence Gibboney of Philadelphia.

Utterly aside from political bias, "His Rise to Power" will bear reading. Mr. Miller has not exactly discovered a new field of fiction writing, but he has discovered a new way of treating his material. He writes normally, adds the touch of human interest, and incidentally has accomplished his purpose—he has sent his message to all people.

May Amalgamate.

The San Francisco Lumber Clerks' Association, the lumber handlers' union and several other labor organizations engaged in practically the same industry, are considering a proposition to amalgamate under one charter.

INDIGESTION, SOURNESS, DYSPEPSIA AND ALL STOMACH MISERY GOES.

A Little Diapepsin Will Make You Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, Nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

AT THE THEATRE.

THE SOISSON.

Vogel's Big City Minstrels.

An occasional visit of a minstrel show is a good thing for the theatre goer. Wearied by a continuous course of problem plays, lurid melodramas and musical comedies, the stately presence and sparkling conversation of the interlocutor appeals restfully to him, while the familiar quips of the end men are hailed as old friends returning from a long journey, and it is all very lovely. This statement is especially true of as good minstrel show as John W. Vogel's Big City Minstrels are presenting, which comes to the Soisson Thursday, Oct. 26. There is just enough newness about it to please, and just enough of the old-time flavor to relieve it from any charge of iconoclasm. And the fact that the past 12 years, demonstrated enthusiastic approval of every item of the bill, would indicate that John W. Vogel's aggregation has made good.

Paul Wilstach, author of the dramatic version of "Thais," has written a play for Tim Murphy called "The Poor Rich," which Mr. Murphy will make his starring vehicle about the middle of November.

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair—No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Try as you will after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it, if you will just try a little Danderine. Real surprise awaits you.

Reception for Rev. Salladay

Special to The Courier.

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., Oct. 19.—On Tuesday evening at the Methodist church was held a welcome reception for the return of the pastor, Rev. C. P. Salladay and wife. In spite of the inclemency of the weather, rain all afternoon and evening, a goodly number, about 200 in all, were present to enjoy the occasion.

Miss Elizabeth Baker entertained the gathering audience with organ selections. A. C. Cottom acted as chairman, announcing the speakers, Dr. J. R. Martin, O. W. Chalfant, and Prof. T. S. Bracken. Dr. Martin made the welcome address and in his own characteristic manner, spoke for the congregation, voicing the sentiments of the people in that they rejoiced that Rev. Salladay had been returned for another year.

O. W. Chalfant represented the young people of the church, and spoke of the pleasant relations which existed between the young folks and the pastor.

Prof. Bracken, High School Principal, spoke in behalf of the school, showing the interest Rev. Salladay had taken in the school, and of the help he had been to him personally in a number of ways during the past term. Rev. Salladay responded to the remarks, thanking the people for their kindness and hearty co-operation, without which a pastor cannot successfully carry on his work, and saying he was truly glad to be returned to them for another year's work.

Miss Baker delighted the audience with a solo, "Out of the Shadows." Miss Grace Hough gave a reading, "The Soul of the Old Violin." James W. Luce rendered a solo, "I Cannot Drift."

The evening was then given over to social conversation and the serving of refreshments. At the Conference recently held at Wilkinsburg, Rev. Salladay was returned to the Perryopolis Church for the third year. He is held in high esteem by the friends of the church and the community at large. His work has been very efficient, and the church has had a phenomenal growth during the past few years, and it was largely due to his untiring efforts while he has been pastor that the church was considered strong enough to be made a station, which was done at the last Conference, much to the satisfaction of the congregation.

Marvel for Any Superfluous Hair.

Wonderful Action of Elec-tro-la, The New Hair Remover, Will Surprise You.

Nearly every man or woman who has been troubled with superfluous or undesirable hairs has had experience with various preparations which merely burn off the surface hair, redden the skin, and fail to kill the hair roots.

Elec-tro-la is the remarkable new hair remover which does more than merely kill the surface hair. It goes

Besides this, Elec-tro-la, instead of burning or reddening the skin as other hair-removers do, leaves the skin fresh and soft, so nobody can ever tell you have been using anything. Whether the superfluous hair is of light or heavy growth, Elec-tro-la will destroy it immediately and permanently.

Even light fuzz makes a woman look coarse. Heavy growth is humiliating, and as Cupid's worst enemy.

Make your face, arms, hands, shoulders, neck and bust look clean and exquisite by using Elec-tro-la.

The regular price is $1.00 a bottle. Your money refunded if you are not satisfied.

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Company.)
(Copyright, 1910, by the MacMillan Company.)

"There's three several things I sure want to tell you-all. When I get outside this door, you-all'll be set free to act, and I just want to warn you-all about what to do. In the first place, no warrants for my arrest—savvee? This money's mine, and I ain't robbed you of it. If it gets out how you gave me the double cross and how I done you back again, the laugh 'll be on you, and it'll be sure an almighty big laugh. You-all can't afford that laugh. Besides, having got back my stake that you-all robbed me of, if you arrest me and try to rob me a second time I'll go gunning for you-all, and I'll sure get you. No little fraid-cat shrimps like you-all can skin Burning Daylight. If you win you lose, and there'll sure be some several unexpected funerals around this burg. Just look me in the eye, and you-all'll savvee I mean business. Them stubs and receipts on the table is all yourn. Good day."

As the door shut behind him, Nathaniel Lotton sprang for the telephone, and Dowsett intercepted him.

"What are you going to do?" Dowsett demanded.

"The police. It's downright robbery. I won't stand it. I tell you I won't stand it."

Dowsett smiled grimly, but at the same time bore the slender financier back and down into his chair.

"We'll talk it over," he said; and in Leon Guggenhammer he found an anxious ally.

And nothing ever came of it. The thing remained a secret with the three men. Nor did Daylight ever give the secret away, though that afternoon, leaning back in his stateroom on the Twentieth Century, his shoes off, and feet on a chair, he chuckled long and heartily. New York remained forever puzzled over the affair; nor could it hit upon a rational explanation. By all rights, Burning Daylight should have gone broke, yet it was known that he immediately reappeared in San Francisco possessing an apparently unimpaired capital. This was evidenced by the magnitude of the enterprises he engaged in, such as, for instance, Panama Mail, by sheer weight of money and fighting power wrestling the control away from Shotly and selling out in two months to the Harriman interests at a rumored enormous advance.

CHAPTER X.

Back in San Francisco, Daylight quickly added to his reputation. In ways it was not an enviable reputation. Men were afraid of him. He became known as a fighter, a fiend, a tiger. His play was a ripping and smashing one, and no one knew where or how his next blow would fall. The element of surprise was large. He balked on the unexpected, and, fresh from the wild North, his mind not operating in stereotyped channels, he was able in unusual degree to devise new tricks and stratagems. And once he won the advantage, he pressed it remorselessly. "As relentless as a Red Indian," was said of him, and it was said truly.

He was a free lance, and had no friendly business associations. Such alliances as were formed from time to time were purely affairs of expediency, and he regarded his allies as men who would give him the double-cross or ruin him if a profitable chance presented. In spite of this point of view, he was faithful to his allies. But he was faithful just as long as they were and no longer. The treason had to come from them, and then it was 'Ware Daylight.

The business men and financiers of the Pacific coast never forgot the lesson of Charles Klinkner and the California & Altamont Trust Company. Klinkner was the president. In partnership with Daylight, the pair raided the San Jose Interurban. The powerful Lake Power & Electric Lighting corporation came to the rescue, and Klinkner, seeing what he thought was the opportunity, went over to the enemy in the thick of the pitched battle. Daylight lost three millions before he was done with it, and before he was done with it he saw the California & Altamont Trust Company hopelessly wrecked, and Charles Klinkner a suicide in a felon's cell.

So it was that Daylight became a successful financier. He did not go in for swindling the workers. Not only did he not have the heart for it, but it did not strike him as a sporting proposition. The workers were so easy, so stupid. It was more like slaughtering fat, hand-reared pheasants on the English preserves he had read about. The sport, to him, was in waylaying the successful robbers and taking their spoils from them. The grim Yukon life had failed to make Daylight hard. It required civilization to produce this result. In the fierce, savage game he now played, his habitual geniality imperceptibly slipped away from him, as did his lazy Western drawl.

He still had recrudescences of geniality, but they were largely periodical and forced, and they were usually due to the cocktails he took prior to mealtime. In the North he had drunk deeply and at irregular intervals; but now his drinking became systematic and disciplined. It was an unconscious development, but it was based upon physical and mental conditions. The cocktails served as an inhibition. Without reasoning or thinking about it, the strain of the office, which was essentially due to the daring and audacity of his ventures, required check or cessation; and he found, through the weeks and months, that the cocktails supplied this very thing. They constituted a stone wall. He never drank during the morning, nor in office hours; but the instant he left the office he proceeded to rear this wall of alcoholic inhibition athwart his consciousness. The office became immediately a closed affair. It ceased to exist. In the afternoon, after lunch, it lived again for one or two hours, when, leaving it, he rebuilt the wall of inhibition. Of course, there were exceptions to this; and, such was the rigor of his discipline, that if he had a dinner or a conference before him in which, in a business way, he encountered enemies or allies and planned or prosecuted campaigns, he abstained from drinking. But the instant the business was settled, his everlasting call went out for a Martini, and for a double-Martini at that, in a long glass so as not to excite comment.

Into Daylight's life came Dede Mason. She came rather imperceptibly. He had accepted her impersonally along with the office furnishing, the office boy, Morrison, the chief, confidential, and only clerk, and all the rest of the accessories of a superman's gambling place of business. Had he been asked any time during the first months she was in his employ, he would have been unable to tell the color of her eyes. From the fact that she was a demi-blonde, there resided dimly in his subconsciousness a conception that she was a brunette. Likewise he had an idea that she was not thin, while there was an absence in his mind of any idea that she was fat. And how she dressed, he had no idea at all. He had no trained eye in such matters, nor was he interested. He took it for granted, in the lack of any impression to the contrary, that she was dressed somehow. He knew her as "Miss Mason," and that was all, though he was aware that as a stenographer she was quick and accurate. He watched her leaving one afternoon, and was aware for the first time that she was well-formed, and that her manner of dress was satisfying. He knew none of the details of woman's dress, and he saw none of the details of her neat shirt waist and well-cut tailor suit. He saw only the effect in a general, sketchy way. She looked right. This was in the absence of anything wrong or out of the way.

"She's a trim little good-looker," was his verdict, when the outer office door closed on her.

The next morning, dictating, he concluded that he liked the way she did her hair, though for the life of him he could have given no description of it. The impression was pleasing, that was all. She sat between him and the window, and he noted that her hair was light brown, with hints of golden bronze. A pale sun, shining in, touched the golden bronze into smouldering fires that were very pleasing. He discovered that in the intervals, when she had nothing to do, she read books and magazines, or worked on some sort of feminine fancy work. Passing her desk once, he picked up a volume of Kipling's poems and glanced bepuzzled through the pages.

"You like reading, Miss Mason?" he said, laying the book down.

"Oh, yes," was the answer; "very much."

Another time it was a book of Wells', "The Wheels of Chance."

"What's it all about?" Daylight asked.

She stopped, but he still stood waiting, and she felt it incumbent to go on.

"It's about a little Cockney draper's assistant, who takes a vacation on his bicycle, and falls in with a young girl very much above him. Her mother is a popular writer and all that. And the situation is very curious, and sad, too, and tragic. Would you care to read it?"

"Does he get her?" Daylight demanded.

"No; that's the point of it. He wasn't—"

"And he doesn't get her, and you've read all them pages, hundreds of them, to find that out?" Daylight muttered in amazement.

Miss Mason was nettled as well as amused.

"But you read the mining and financial news by the hour," she retorted.

"But I sure get something out of that. It's business, and it's different. I get money out of it. What do you get out of books?"

The Cocktails Served as an Inhibition.

"Points of view, new ideas, life."

"Not worth a cent cash."

"But life's worth more than cash," she argued.

"Oh, well," he said, with easy masculine tolerance, "so long as you enjoy it. That's what counts, I suppose; and there's no accounting for taste."

Despite his own superior point of view, he had an idea that she knew a lot, and he experienced a fleeting feeling like that of a barbarian face to face with the evidence of some tremendous culture. To Daylight culture was a worthless thing, and yet, somehow, he was vaguely troubled by a sense that there was more in culture than he imagined.

Again, on her desk, in passing, he noticed a book with which he was familiar. This time he did not stop, for he had recognized the cover. It was a magazine correspondent's book on the Klondike, and he knew that he and his photograph figured in it, and he knew, also, of a certain sensational chapter concerned with a woman's suicide, and with one "To Much Daylight." After that he did not talk with her again about books. He imagined what erroneous conclusions she had drawn from that particular chapter, and it stung him the more in that they were undeserved. He pumped Morrison, the clerk, who had first to vent his personal grievance against Miss Mason before he could tell what little he knew of her.

"She comes from Siskiyou County. She's very nice to work with in the office, of course, but she's rather stuck on herself—exclusive, you know."

"How do you make that out?" Daylight queried.

"Well, she thinks too much of herself to associate with those she works with, in the office here, for instance. She won't have anything to do with a fellow, you see. I've asked her out repeatedly, to the theater and the chutes and such things. But nothing doing. Says she likes plenty of sleep, and can't stay up late, and has to go all the way to Berkeley—that's where she lives. But that's all hot air. She's running with the University boys, that's what she's doing. She needs lots of sleep, and can't go to the theater with me, but she can dance all hours with them. I've heard it pretty straight that she goes to all their hops and such things. Rather stylish and high-toned for a stenographer, I'd say. And she keeps a horse, too. She rides astride all over those hills out there. I saw her one Sunday myself. Oh, she's a high-flyer, and I wonder how she does it. Sixty-five a month don't go far. Then she has a sick brother, too."

"Live with her people?" Daylight asked.

"No; hasn't got any. They were well to do, I've heard. They must have been, or that brother or hers couldn't have gone to the University of California. Her father had a big cattle-ranch, but he got to fooling with mines or something, and went broke before he died. Her mother died long before that. Her brother must cost a lot of money. He was a husky once, played football, was great on hunting and being out in the mountains and such things. He got his accident breaking horses, and then rheumatism or something got into him. One leg is shorter than the other, and withered up some. He has to walk on crutches. I saw her out with him once—crossing the ferry. The doctors have been experimenting on him for years, and he's in the French Hospital now, I think."

All of which side-lights on Miss Mason went to increase Daylight's interest in her. Yet, much as he desired, he failed to get acquainted with her. He had thoughts of asking her to luncheon, but his was the innate chivalry of the frontiersman, and the thoughts never came to anything. He knew a self-respecting, square-dealing man was not supposed to take his stenographer to luncheon. Such things did happen, he knew, for he heard the chaffing gossip of the club; but he did not think much of such men and felt sorry for the girls.

CHAPTER XI.

Daylight was in the thick of his spectacular and intensely bitter fight with the Coastwise Steam Navigation Company, and the Hawaiian, Nicaraguan, and Pacific-Mexican Steamship Company. He stirred up a bigger muss than he had anticipated, and even he was astounded at the wide ramifications of the struggle and at the unexpected and incongruous interests that were drawn into it. Every newspaper in San Francisco turned upon him. It was true, one or two of them had first intimated that they were open to subsidization, but Daylight's judgment was that the situation did not warrant such expenditure. Up to this time the press had been amusingly tolerant and good-naturedly sensational about him, but now he was to learn what virulent scurrilousness an antagonized press was capable of. Every episode of his life was resurrected to serve as foundations for malicious fabrications. Daylight was frankly amazed at the new interpretation put upon all that he had accomplished and the deeds he had done. From an Alaskan hero he was metamorphosed into an Alaskan bully, liar, desperado, and all-around "bad man." The whole affair sank to the deeper deeps of rancor and savageness. The poor woman who had killed herself was dragged out of her grave and paraded on thousands of reams of paper as a martyr and a victim to Daylight's ferocious brutality.

He was like a big bear raiding a bee-hive, and, regardless of the stings, he obstinately persisted in pawing for the honey. He gritted his teeth and struck back. Beginning with a raid on two steamship companies, it developed into a pitched battle with a city, state and continental coast line. Allied with him, on a splendid salary, with princely pickings thrown in, was a lawyer, Larry Hegan, a young Irishman with a reputation to make, and whose peculiar genius had been unrecognized until Daylight had picked up with him. It was Hegan who guided Daylight through the intricacies of modern politics, labor organization, and commercial and corporation law. It was Hegan, prolific of resource and suggestion, who opened Daylight's eyes to undreamed-of possibilities in twentieth-century warfare; and it was Daylight, rejecting, accepting, and elaborating, who planned the campaigns and prosecuted them. With the Pacific coast, from Puget Sound to Panama, buzzing and humming, and with San Francisco furiously about his ears, the two big steamship companies had all the appearance of winning. It looked as if Burning Daylight was being beaten slowly to his knees. And then he struck—at the steamship companies, at San Francisco, at the whole Pacific coast.

It was not much of a blow at first. A Christian Endeavor convention was being held in San Francisco, a row was started by Express Drivers' Union No. 927 over the handling of a small heap of baggage at Ferry Building. A few heads were broken, a score of arrests made, and the baggage was delivered. No one would have guessed that behind this petty wrangle was the fine Irish hand of Hegan, made potent by the Klondike gold of Burning Daylight. It was an insignificant affair at best—or so it seemed. But the Teamsters' Union took up the quarrel, backed by the whole Water Front Federation. Step by step, the strike became involved. A refusal of cooks and waiters to serve scab teamsters or teamsters' employers brought out the cooks and waiters. The butchers and meat cutters refused to handle meat destined for unfair restaurants. The combined Employers' Associations put up a solid front, and found facing them the 40,000 organized laborers of San Francisco. The restaurant bakers and the bakery wagon drivers struck, followed by the milkers, milk drivers and chicken pickers. The building trades asserted its position in unambiguous terms, and all San Francisco was in turmoil.

Mr. I. L. Showem — He Has Another Financial Deal With the Count — By Ryan Walker

GENERALS WHO WILL PROBABLY COMMAND DIVISIONS OF THE ARMY AFTER REORGANIZATION.

Great Naval Demonstration Scheduled For New York Harbor First of Month.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The meaning of the greatest naval mobilization in the history of America was set forth today by the Secretary of the Navy in the following article, written for the United Press:

"On October 31 and November 1 there will be mobilized in New York harbor for the inspection and review the most powerful aggregation of fighting ship over assembled under the American flag. Rear Admiral Osterhaus will have under his immediate command 102 warships from Dreadnaughts to tiny submarines. At the same time the entire strength of the Pacific fleet will be assembled under the command of Rear Admiral Thomas at Los Angeles.

The purpose of this mobilization, almost unprecedented in American naval history is two fold. Primarily it is to show the preparedness of the fleet, the defects, if any, in personnel and material.

"I have sought to impress upon the country the fact that the fleet is the navy and the navy is the fleet; all else is auxiliary. Therefore it is my purpose to do all that I can to develop the fleet as a highly organized, self-sustaining, efficient potential sea-fighting power.

"The mobilization was ordered on comparatively short notice—less than 30 days. The ships were scattered, after a year of hard work, many of them undergoing repairs. Making all the ships ready for the great assembly will be a splendid test of the ability of the fleet and of the organization, in answer to the requirements which would be imposed upon them in case of a sudden emergency.

"Secondarily, the mobilization is for the benefit of the nation. I want to bring the navy closer to the people. I want as many citizens as possible to see the fleet assembled in its greatest strength. The people pay for the navy cheerfully. I think they will be even more willing to concede its value when they see what a tremendous potential fighting power it is as an assurance of peace.

"At New York, for the first time, the fleet will be seen as a composite whole. And it is upon the strength of the fleet as a composite organization rather than upon the excellence of any one group of vessels, that our sea power depends. To develop that organized strength to its highest efficiency is the great purpose of the mobilization and it is due to the nation that it be shown what the navy really is."

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

Of a Railroad in Alaska Wanted by Poindexter.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—"I have had no occasion to change my opinion that the government should build an Alaskan railroad and open the coal mines of Alaska, primarily for supplying the government's own needs on the Pacific coast and secondarily, for furnishing coal at reasonable cost to consumers."

This was the statement made today by United States Senator Miles Poindexter, on his arrival here from Alaska, where he made an exhaustive investigation of conditions.

Pitt Eleven to Play Indians

Special to The Courier.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 19.—The University of Pittsburg, which boasts of being the oldest institution of learning east of the Appalachian range, is arranging to celebrate the 125th anniversary of its charter grant February 28, 1912. The original charter was secured by the Pittsburg Academy, which evolved into the Western University of Pennsylvania; in 1908 it adopted the name of the city which it represents and became the University of Pittsburg. Elaborate plans are being formulated to make the anniversary one of the most notable Pittsburg has ever witnessed. A historical pageant, in which over 1,000 undergraduates will participate, will be one of the leading features. Chancellor Samuel B. McCormick at that time expects to be able to report substantial results from the canvass for $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment which has been inaugurated.

On Saturday the Carlisle Indians play Pitt at Forbes Field.
